Victim Notification Module Deployment Status
Jo Winston gave an overview and demonstration on local and national progress with crime victim notification systems. WI VINE (Victim Information and Notification Everyday) is a system where victims, law enforcement and the public may register to be notified regarding custody status change for an offender/defendant who is in the custody of a Wisconsin county jail. VOICE for Victims is the automated system where victims/survivors can enroll with the WI DOC Office of Victim Services and Programs to access DOC offender information and receive notification of DOC offender status changes.

The VINE Protective Order system (VPO) allows petitioners and advocates to register to be notified when their Temporary Restraining Order is served on the respondent. They can also receive a notification of firearm surrender to law enforcement associated with an injunction.
In early 2014, victim notification for offenders in ICOTS (Interstate Compact Offender Tracking System) will be available to registered victims. This system will use ICOTS data to notify registered crime victims at various milestones of compact supervision between states (e.g., reporting instructions, transfer request, departure, arrival, violations, etc.). Victims cannot enroll for this notification themselves and will need to be enrolled by authorized staff in each state. In Wisconsin OVSP staff will contact victims who are currently enrolled with the VOICE for Victims system for notification to offer ICOTS enrollment and expanded notifications.

2011 Act 266 (full implementation 1-1-2014)
Jo Winston described the new WI law where persons who are convicted of violating a domestic abuse or harassment Temporary Restraining Order (TRO) or injunction for violations that occur on or after 1-1-2014 may be subject to additional conditions. Courts have additional options including probation of up to four years, increased jail penalty of up to 9 months, and can require the Department of Corrections (DOC) to place the offender on continuous global positioning system (GPS) monitoring as a court-ordered condition. As of July 1, 2013, the law provides that courts shall order a $200 surcharge for each count of violating a domestic abuse or harassment TRO or injunction to help cover the cost of placing offenders on GPS after January 1, 2014. The WI DOC will establish exclusion zones for ACT 266 offenders who are placed on GPS monitoring, areas where the offender is prohibited. These could include for example, areas around the victim’s home, school and/or work. Violation of an exclusion zone is a new criminal offense and a mandatory custody. The DOC will also establish ‘warning zones’ which will typically be a larger area around the exclusion zone. Violation of a warning zone is not a new criminal offense but would be a violation of the offender’s rules of supervision and, although not a mandatory arrest, could result in the agent requiring that the offender be taken into custody pending investigation and could result in revocation. The EMC staff will use the Vine Protective Order (VPO) system to notify the victim immediately of any violation in an exclusion zone or a warning zone. The other types of notifications related to GPS, such as non-detection of GPS device, offender in custody, situation cleared, etc. were also reviewed and discussed.

2014 ICAOS Rule Amendments (eff. 3-1-2014)
Tracy Hudrlik reviewed the Interstate Commission for Adult Offender Supervision (ICAOS) rule amendments ratified at the Annual Business Meeting of states held in August. DOC staff will be trained on rules and procedural changes in advance of the 3-1-2014 effective date.
